

Why myCarePrice?

Written by Administrator

Friday, 22 October 2010 17:55 - Last Updated Monday, 22 November 2010 19:39

Health care costs in the US are about twice those of other developed countries. Unfortunately, this does not translate into better health since the US is close to the bottom of a list of 21 developed countries in health status.

There are many reasons for the high cost and low effectiveness of health care services in the US. Some of these are high prices for services and drugs and unnecessary and duplicate services.

Everyone in the US pays for these high costs either directly or through insurance. Unfortunately, health care pricing is not transparent. There are many different prices and most of the time, these prices are not published.

This web site gives you the tools you need to understand pricing; know what is a reasonable charge for a service; and understand if you need a service.